

I asked my dealer to check the air box to see if there was anything clogged and to clean the oil out. They said they would so now I don't know if I still have a problem or they never did what they said.

I went from the carwash straight to my house and look how much oil I had on my bike after giving it a good cleaning.

To get the air box off for cleaning you need to remove these two bolts.

Then you need to remove the screws from the backside of the air box.

Mine had a lot of oil in it. I guess now I need to find out if this is new oil or the dealer never cleaned out the old oil. 😬

So this is what your air intake looks like. Lot of room for improvement.

I'll be making a phone call tomorrow to see what they say.
